A BANQUET FOR HUNGRY GHOSTS

Animation. Adults.

EVERY DISH TELLS A STORY. EVERY STORY FEEDS THE DEAD

A Banquet of Hungry Ghosts is an animated horror feature that fuses Chinese cuisine, folklore, and the supernatural. A Banquet for the Hungry Ghosts is adapted from the acclaimed book by Ying Chang Compestine.

The 90-minute film unfolds through four standalone yet interconnected tales, each inspired by an iconic Chinese dish and brought to life in a distinct visual style. Presiding over this eerie feast is a spectral chef who welcomes lost souls into his mysterious, otherworldly restaurant.

Blending the macabre, the playful, and the poetic, the film serves up a haunting exploration of human frailty, ancestral guilt, and greed — a cinematic experience that lingers long after the final course.

EGG FRIED RICE: "HOUSE OF HUNGER" (20 min)

When a young girl is betrayed and buried alive by her stepmother, she returns from the tomb, hungry not for revenge — but for the dish that once meant love, now served cold as judgment.

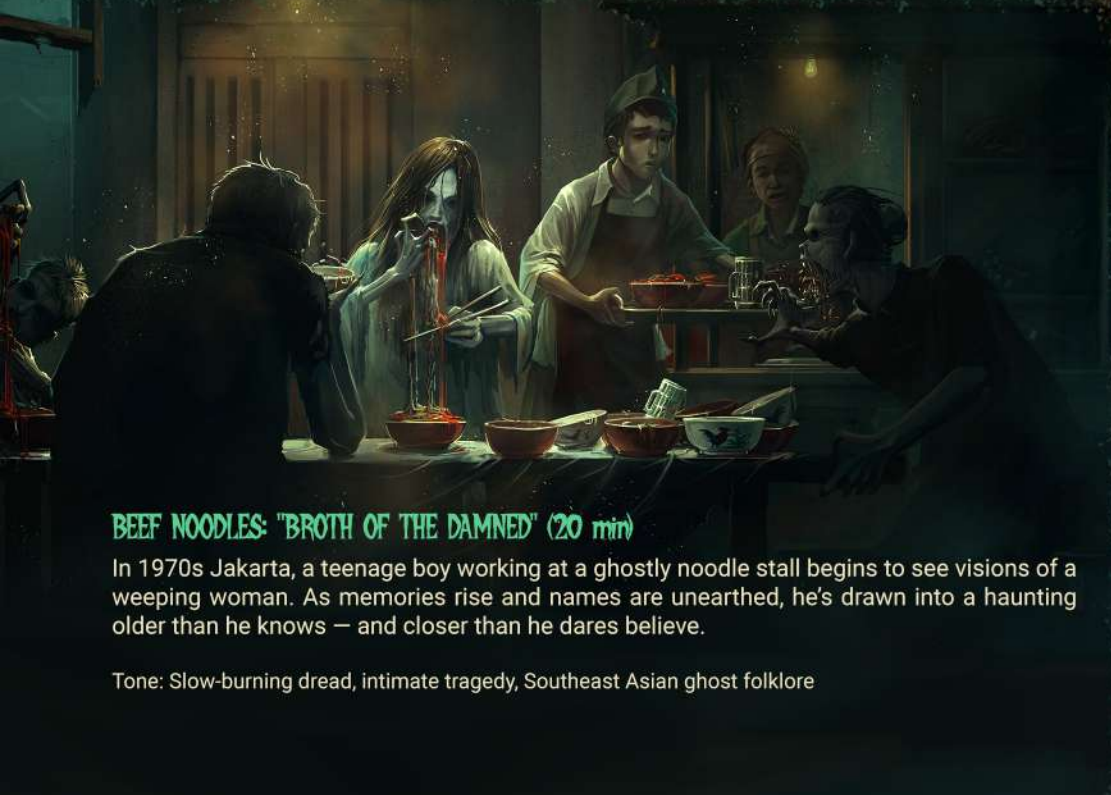

Tone: Gothic tragedy, psychological horror, slow-burning vengeance.

HOT POT: "RED FEAST" (20 min)

A young man inherits a hot pot restaurant from his estranged father — only to discover it's a front for a demon banquet where Singapore's elite strike infernal deals. A grotesque, satirical carnival of excess.

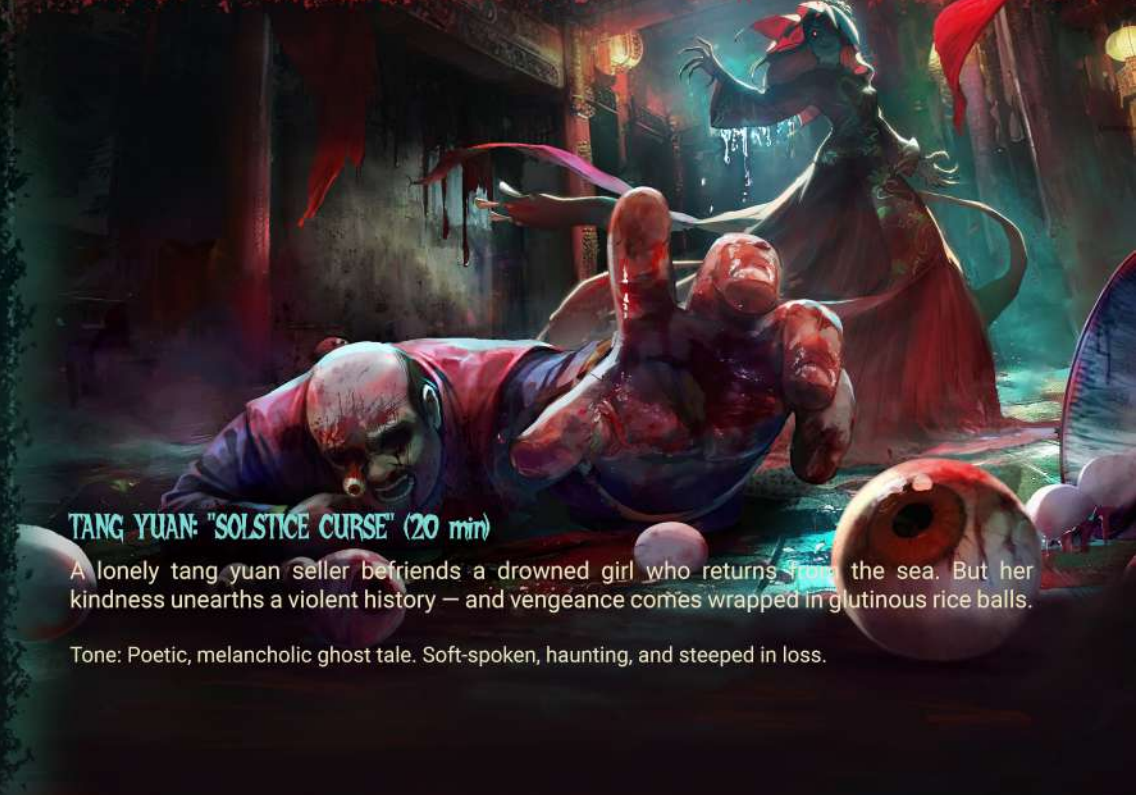

Tone: Grotesque horror-comedy with satirical bite; a slow descent into hell, hidden beneath urban civility.

BEEF NOODLES: "BROTH OF THE DAMNED" (20 min)

In 1970s Jakarta, a teenage boy working at a ghostly noodle stall begins to see visions of a weeping woman. As memories rise and names are unearthed, he's drawn into a haunting older than he knows — and closer than he dares believe.

Tone: Slow-burning dread, intimate tragedy, Southeast Asian ghost folklore

TANG YUAN: "SOLSTICE CURSE" (20 min)

A lonely tang yuan seller befriends a drowned girl who returns from the sea. But her kindness unearths a violent history — and vengeance comes wrapped in glutinous rice balls.

Tone: Poetic, melancholic ghost tale. Soft-spoken, haunting, and steeped in loss.
